Introduction

John Steinbeck (1902-1968) was born in Salinas, California. He worked as a farm laborer while in college. He never graduated from college, but his time as working on farms influenced his writing. Steinbeck was able to make a living at writing with the publication of his novel Tortilla Flats in 1935. Steinbeck's novels were a reflection of the times in which he lived. In the novella Of Mice and Men (1937), two life-long friends, Lennie and George, must move from farm to farm to find work. Lennie is described as being mentally challenged and George looks after him. The entire country has been impacted by the Great Depression and the ensuing Dust Bowl. The impact of these events on the nation was devastating. People were unable to afford the most basic necessities. You are a newspaper editor from the 1930's. You are to create the front page of a newspaper using the information you learn about The Dust Bowl, The Great Depression and migrant farm workers from this Webquest. What was life like during the 1930's? How did this impact people and the world? What were the politics of the time? What is a true friend? What are the boundaries of friendship?

Tasks

You are a newspaper editor in the 1930's. Using Microsoft Publisher you are to create the front page of a newspaper to include:

- An editorial on a social issue from the 1930's
- Write two news articles from the following topics: Either world news or politics, and radio, film, or fashion
- Create two advertisements from items that would have appeared in a 1930's newspaper.

As you read or view each of these links, take notes to be used in writing your articles.

- Read the PBS article on The Great Depression
- View Chapter 3 of Surviving the Dust Bowl
- Read the timeline of The Great Depression
- Read the Introduction & all 3 parts of Eyewitness to History by moving your mouse over the picture & clicking on the color images.

Choose two topics to write an article about & read the corresponding website.

1. Select either world news, or politics
2. Select one-radio, film, or fashion

Create two advertisements from that would have appeared in a 1930's newspaper. You will need to locate these on your own using the website credibility criteria you learned in the library.
