Introduction

Creative writing is lacking in our schools today. Teaching how to start to think creative is easier than you think. Just see it as filling up a blank canvas with your own favorite colors. The analogy is that the canvas is the topic and the colors are the creative words that you are putting together to build that artist portrait but in writing.

Tasks

The task is to unlock the creativity of the writer by going through a process of building blocks. After this lesson, students should be able to successfully complete the following tasks: Develop fluency, logic, clarity, and creativity Write for a variety of audiences Explore diverse modes and genres of writing Utilize evaluation and revision skills Focus on the steps of the process writing Use available technology in the creative process

Process

You will be drafting a creative essay by doing the following Steps: Prewriting (what's your topic and brainstorm lot's) Drafting(collect the ideas that bubbling in your mind, write down everything you think !!) Revising (organize your thoughts on paper) Editing (review: spelling, grammar, capitalization, punctuation) Evaluating(reflecting on your work) Publishing (Creative work done!!!)
