

Conditional Sentence

WebQuest Description: Hello, welcome to my webquest! you can learn english grammar easy in here. The student need to understand about overview of basic verb form used in conditional sentence and have to able to answer the questions about conditional sentence. Hope you enjoy this webquest!

Grade Level: 9-12

Curriculum: English / Language Arts

Keywords: conditional sentence

Published On:

Last Modified: 2019-04-16 14:46:01

WebQuest URL: <http://zunal.com/webquest.php?w=406836>

Introduction

Conditional sentence is also known as conditional clauses or if clauses. Conditional sentence are used to speculate about what could happen, what might have happened, and what we wish would happen. A conditional sentence tells the "conditions" in which something happens. It shows a possible cause and effect situation in the form of an "if...then" statement. In fact, every conditional sentence has a clause beginning with "if." Conditional sentences let us express things that might or could have happened, could still happen, we wish could happen, or always happen in specific circumstances. There are three types of conditional sentences :1. Conditional sentence type 1 The first conditional shares the result of situation in the future that we think is pretty likely to happen. The main clause will use a modal, like would, should, could, will, may, might, or can. Form: if clause + simple present, future tense (will) Example: If you help me, I will help you. If I win the lottery, I will buy a new car. If it snows tomorrow, we will go skiing. 2. Conditional sentence type 2The second conditional shows possible outcomes that could occur in the present or future, if specific conditions exist. To put it simply, second conditionals reflect ideas of "if you did this, this can happen." BUT, the "did" hasn't happened yet, it's just possible. Form: if clause + simple past, conditional I (would + infinitive) Example: If you knew her, you would agree with me. If I won the lottery, I would buy a new car. If it snowed tomorrow, we would go skiing. 3. Conditional sentence type 3The third conditional lets us contemplate what could have happened if things went differently in the past. It lets us reflect upon things in the way of "if this had happened, this could have happened." Form: if + past perfect, Conditional II (would + have + past participle) Example: if clause > past perfect tense : main clause > would have If you had helped me, I would have helped you. If I had won the lottery, I would have bought a new car. If it had snowed yesterday, we would have gone skiing. To make it easier for you, you can see this video below!

Tasks

In this task we need to know how well you understand conditional sentences by doing the exercise in the document below. Please take a look and read carefully at "Process" menu to know how to do this task!

Process

First, read the explanation about conditional sentence in the instruction menu. Second, if you still feel confuse and need more explanation you can click the Youtube Link (at the bottom of the introduction page) to watch the detailed explanation about conditional sentence and please pay attention while you watch the video! Last, after you watch the video, you can go to the task menu to answer the question.

Evaluation

This evaluation shows how the teachers give a score to the students task. Here the rubric below for the students who has done the task.

Category and Score	Need improvement	Fair	Good	Excellent	Score
exercise	if you can not answer less than 10 questions, you will get D.	-	-	-	40-50
-	-	If you can answer less than 15 questions, you will get C	-	-	60-70
-	-	-	If you can answer less than 25 questions, you will get B	-	80-90

Category and Score	Need improvement	Fair	Good	Excellent	Score
-	-	-	-	If you can answer 30 questions, you will get A	90-100
				Total Score

Conclusion

Define conditional sentence: the definition of conditional sentence is a sentence type that expresses a conditional and the outcome of condition. In summary, a conditional sentence usually begins with "if" includes a dependent and independent clause comes in different forms including first, second, and third type. Example: first conditional: States the result of a possible future event occurring. If you get some sleep, you will feel better. second conditional: States the result of an unlikely event occurring or an untruth being true. If you become an insomniac, you would understand. (unlikely event occurring) if you were an insomniac, you would understand. (untruth being true) third conditional: States how the situation would be different with a different past. If you had slept last night, you would have beaten your record.

Teacher Page

As a modern teacher, we need to be creative in order the students interested to learn. this webquest help the teachers teach the students creatively. this is the way you can choose to be creative teacher. create a content as interesting as possible for your students.

Standards

To all 12 grade students of senior high school, this curriculum has been completed at all. This curriculum already appropriate in learning English Grammar.

Credits

I would like to say thank you to my beloved lecturer of Computer Assisted Language Learning, Mrs Tiarna Ika Yuliana, S.S., M.Hum. who taught me and gave me this assignment to create my first content in webquest, so i can apply it well. i hope it will be useful for me when i become a teacher.

Other

Never stop teaching. If you stop teaching, someone will lost the most important thing (knowledge)