Introduction

Cyberbullying has become a major problem for our generation. This includes Facebook, and texting. It is also defined as, " When someone furthers contact with an individual after asked not to." Although this result isn't common, some kids even take their own lives believing that is their only way out.

Tasks

People have "discovered" that many influences behind a bully's actions involve problems at home. These can include broken homes, single parent homes, and even abuse. This makes it hard to reach most of them, unless you can relate. That is why many outreach programs to help.

Process

Currently bullying is close to becoming a federal offence. If the rate of bullying at a school becomes too high, it could cost a school's funding. Many schools are trying to stop bullying but the rates continue to climb...
